TIGGES Rechtsanwälte strengthens the Transport & Logistics division with Of Counsel Dr. Frank Wilting

Düsseldorf, 01 July 2020 – As of 1 July 2020, the law firm TIGGES will strengthen its Transport & Logistics Practice Group at the Düsseldorf office with the new

Of Counsel Dr. Frank Wilting, specialist lawyer for transport and forwarding law and administrative law.

Dr. Wilting has been advising national and international companies in the railway and forwarding sector in his own law firm for 12 years, focusing on private and public railway law, contract law, transport law and commercial tenancy law. In addition, he represents insurers and vehicle owners in the enforcement of their claims in railway accident cases. Before joining his own law firm, he worked for many years in leading positions in the railway industry, among others, and therefore has extensive practical experience.

With Dr. Wilting, the Transport & Logistics Practice Group grows to seven lawyers. The team advises domestic and international logistics companies and carriers on all transport law matters. This concerns in particular freight transport by rail, road, air and multimodal transport chains.

"Colleague Dr. Wilting is a great asset to our law firm both professionally and personally", comments TIGGES partner Klaus-Peter Langenkamp, who heads the Transport & Logistics Practice Group. "We have already been working together in a trustworthy manner for 2 years within the framework of transport and railway law mandates and are very pleased that Dr. Wilting has decided to join us. For our clients this means a further deepening of our proven industry expertise, especially in the railway sector".
